Talks on Modern Youth

"Modern Youth and Reform" was the subject a Dr. Zaugg's talk. Optimism, impatience and venturesomeness were cited as some of the qualities of modern youth. "They also possess some misconceptions such as thinking they are different, that matureness is out of sympathy with youth, that fundamental truths have gone out of date and that growth comes through freedom," he said.

"The things that do change are social customs and modes of liv-

JAPAN, RUSSIA DRAW FORCES

New Threat of War Follows Sinking of Soviet Ships in Amur River.

EMPEROR ASKS FOR FACTS

Withdrawal of All Russian Forces from Disputed Territory Demanded.

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, July 1 — Emperor Hirohito called upon high defense heads today for the facts in the Russo-Japanese crisis after a Japanese cabinet decision that only the immediate withdrawal of Soviet fighters and gunboats from the disputed Amur river border lands could effect a peaceful settlement.

*In an uneasy atmosphere of of*ficial silence, indicating a ban on dispatches from the trouble zone that lies between Soviet Siberia and Japanese-sponsored Manchoukuo, the armies of Japan and the so-called "puppet state" were announced to be prepared for any eventuality.

From both sides of the frontier were reports of mass troops movements following a naval-artillery burst of violence...some Japanese newspaper divisions said the Soviets had mobilized 300,000 men in 13 divisions of their vast far eastern Red army, supported by planes, armored cars and tanks.

Japanese reports said today that five more Soviet gunboats had appeared at Sennufu island in the Amur river where an alleged Soviet "invasion" has led to an armed clash between the Russian river craft and Japanese-Manchoukuoan border artillery. These advices, together with continued Soviet occupation of the island and what Japanese sources said was Moscow's failure to reply to Tokyo's protests on the "invasion," heightened official apprehension.

The Mikado, after the cabinet meeting, called navy minister Admiral Yonai to his palace to give him the newest developments.

(In Moscow, the Japanese ambassador warned the Soviet government in strong tones to evacuate its armed forces from the vicinity of Manchoukuo-claimed Amur river islands, which really are sandbanks, that vanish at flood tide).

Both Russia and Japan were reported mobilizing their armed forces along the river boundary.

Japanese newspapers in scare headlines declared the situation was gravely dangerous, and expressed fear the Soviet's Siberian

MARION PLAYGROUNDS TO BE MANAGED BY Y. M. C. A.

Tag Day To Finance Purchase of Equipment To Be Held Saturday by Leaders.

Marion's playgrounds will be under the supervision of the Y. M. C. A. this summer for the first time since federal agencies took them over two years ago. Three of the parks, Lincoln, McKinley and one at the Marion Steam Shovel Athletic field on Uncapher avenue will open Tuesday. Garfield park is expected to be opened later.

The Y. M. C. A. will use WPA and NYA help, to be selected and trained by Y leaders. For the last two years the WPA has been supervising park playgrounds.

The training of approximately 25 workers began Thursday at the Y in charge of Clarence Lenz, boys' work secretary.

The hours in which play will be supervised are uncertain at present but will be determined shortly by the Y playground committee. The parks will be open both in the morning and afternoon.

Mr. Lenz stressed the fact that every one is welcome at the parks

FAMOUS NEWLYWEDS SMILE HAPPILY

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., and Ethel duPont—America's "Romeo and Juliet"—are shown here after their wedding at Little Christ church, near Wilmington, Del., yesterday. The ceremony united two of the most famous American families and was witnessed by members of the two families which have been so heartily opposed politically. The newlyweds are shown here outside the church after the wedding. (Associated Press photo).

America's No. 1 Couple Honeymoon in Secrecy

Franklin Roosevelt and His duPont Bride Married in Rich but Simple Ceremony.

By The Associated Press

WILMINGTON, Del., July 1 — Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., and Ethel duPont were man and wife today, honeymooning in secrecy after a rich but simple wedding climaxing a romance which had captivated the nation.

With the eyes of the country upon them as they were joined in the most publicized American wedding of the year, the blond, blue-eyed bride and her tall, athletically-built groom slipped out of sight with the expert aid of the United States secret service.

Both President Roosevelt, father of the groom, and Mrs. Roosevelt conspired with a few members of the families and intimate friends to keep the honeymoon plans secret. Mrs. Roosevelt, who has made many intimate family revelations in the past, made it plain that this time she was "not going to tell."

There were reliable reports that on July 10 the young newlyweds would go abroad on the liner Empress of Britain, but their whereabouts meanwhile was kept from the public.

The couple bade farewell to their families and 1,300 friends at a reception held at Owl's Nest, home of the bride's father, Eugene duPont, last night after the wedding. Secret service men such as guard the President aided the smiling couple as they slipped out into a rainy night.

The wedding rites were completed at 4:14 p. m. yesterday in Christ Protestant Episcopal church.

President Kisses Bridesmaids

The 22-year-old husband and his bride, a year his junior, sought to force their parents from the spectator roles which both the Roosevelts and the duPonts had played all day. At the reception Ethel whispered to the President. An instant later, he was the center of a flock of bridesmaids, all wanting a kiss.

Franklin repeated his father's toast to the bride, then proposed another: "To mother."

The first lady smiled at him from her place in the reception line next to Mrs. Eugene duPont, the bride's mother.

Gay camaraderie characterized duPont's greeting to the President on the latter's visit to his home.

"Welcome to Owl's Nest," duPont said, bowing.

"Thank you sir," said the President, "and I'm coming back another time."

"The next time," rejoined his host, "bring some white flannels."

The President, apparently having such a good time he did not want to leave, stayed at the reception almost two hours longer than he had planned. That was after a two-hour dinner prolonged by innumerable toasts.

Before he and Mrs. Roosevelt boarded their special train for Hyde Park, N. Y., the President watched the bride and groom gaily bid their guests goodbye from a second story entrance hall gallery and stood with the bride's parents when Ethel tossed her bouquet to the eager girls below. Aimee, her blonde sister and maid-of-honor, caught it.

Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. duPont gaily returned the kisses thrown to them by their newlywed son and daughter.

SHERIFF AND AIDS START TRAFFIC DRIVE

Miller and Deputies Use New Citation Movement in Safety Campaign.

Sheriff Fred Miller and his deputies today are in a drive to reduce accidents at "suicide crossing," Routes 95 and 98, and other hazardous intersections in the county. To aid in their efforts, they have purchased 600 blank citation forms to hand to traffic offenders.

Until the forms were ordered, the sheriff's office never operated on the citation system but had summarily arrested offenders and brought them into court.

The forms are in triplicate, one going to the offender, one to the sheriff and one to the court. The violator is handed his copy at the scene of the offense and is ordered to appear in municipal court at a stated time. If the violator does not appear, he is arrested later.

Sheriff Miller, deputy Gene Geisler and Deputy W. H. Willis all have a book of 200 citation forms. To date approximately 10 persons have been cited and brought before municipal court, virtually all for disregarding stop and slow signs at Routes 95 and 98. The fine averages $15, Sheriff Miller said.

The worst offenders, the sheriff finds, are persons living out of the county. Marion county drivers are familiar with the dangerous crossings and usually obey the signs, the sheriff said. For example, yesterday a Marion county driver, on Route 95 not only slowed down but stopped to permit a careless out-of-county driver on Route 98 to speed through the intersection.

Sheriff Miller stressed the fact that his staff will not attempt to establish a speed trap, but will merely enforce the traffic code at dangerous points. He and his deputies will be stationed at the more hazardous crossings from time to time when other official duties are not pressing.

TRUCE REACHED BY COMPANY, CIO LEADERS

Indiana Governor Acts as Mediator in Settlement at East Chicago.

NO CONTRACT SIGNED

CIO To Bargain for Members Only; Company's Labor Policy Accepted.

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 1—Police disclosed today that the Youngstown Sheet & Tube company in a secret maneuver early today began partial operations at its South Chicago, Ill., mill. Police Sergt. John Cannon said 210 men entered the plant, some by boat and others aboard pullman railroad cars. Telephone calls to the plant failed to reach company officials but the switchboard operator said the plant "was operating."

By The Associated Press

EAST CHICAGO, Ind., July 1—Inland Steel's plant here peacefully reopened today under a truce announced by Gov. M. Clifford Townsend of Indiana.

Thousands of workers, many wearing freshly laundered overalls and all grinning happily, walked through the gates in the first trouble-free reopening of a steel mill since the Great Lakes strike was launched May 26.

The mills of the Mahoning valley in Ohio hummed at what company officials said was near capacity, but Ohio National Guardsmen remained to see that there was no disorder.

The Bessemer converters turned the night sky red over the Youngstown steel mill district early today for the first time since the strike was launched.

Republic Steel, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Inland and Bethlehem Steel are affected.

Elsewhere the long strike front was quiet.

The Inland truce, said Gov. Townsend, consisted of two parts. The first was a "statement of faith" on the part of the company and the SWOC.

That, among other things, provided for the return of strikers and non-strikers without discrimination.

The second consisted of a labor policy previously announced by Inland Steel to its employes.

Clarence B. Randall, vice president and spokesman for Inland Steel, announced the truce represented "not one iota" of concession to the CIO.

On the other hand, Nicholas Fontecchio, director of SWOC in the Calumet (Indiana-Illinois) steel section, said: "We won the strike. It is the best settlement yet made with any steel company."

"We signed nothing last night," said Randall. "We made no agreement with anybody.

"The CIO simply accepted to Gov. Townsend the provisions of our labor policy which we submitted to the governor last Saturday. Our letters to the governor restated the labor policy we announced to our employes May 25. We stand on that policy. Our policy now and last night is identical with that we set forth in the mediations at Cleveland."

Repeats Request

Randall said the only action the company took last night was to repeat by telegram to Gov. Townsend at his request its previous declaration that men would be taken back to work without discrimination in regard to membership in any labor organization.

The truce, he said, would have no effect on the hearing being conducted at Chicago on a national labor relations board complaint that Inland violated the Wagner act by refusing to sign a contract with the SWOC.

The Inland steel strike is ended for its 12,500 employes, but who "won the strike" was very much a moot question.

The mills reopened under an agreement by which CIO is recognized as the bargaining agent for

This Sounds Handy

The tax experts in the U. S. treasury have announced a new model of taxation. Its principal feature is flexibility. Thus each tax would have two rates, one for good times, another for bad times. Congress simply would determine whether times were good or bad, go through the right motions and the proper rate would be in effect.

Somehow this sounds as though the tax experts were trying to ward off the evil eye of congressmen who wonder why the internal revenue department has been letting so many wealthy taxpayers slip through the net. The tax investigation has taken an unforeseen turn. Begun simply as a political counter-attack, it suddenly has become technical. Senators and representatives are blaming tax collectors for laxity.

So it wouldn't be unheard of for the collectors and the experts who direct them to want to divert congressional attention. The flexible rate sounds like a handy thing. Does it mean that tax rates should be higher when times are bad and the government needs more money; that they should be reduced when times are bad and boosted when times get better; or that they should be boosted through good and bad times, which is the present style?

Tired Of It.

Congressmen do not have to be told there is only feeble popular interest in the administration's judicial reorganization proposal. They need to consult only their own feelings to understand why.

Observers in Washington now are saying that representatives and senators already committed to the proposal are those most anxious to keep it from a vote this session. They are not to be given a break, however. The strategy, apparently, is to create a condition of exhaustion.

The senate will open debate on the bill next week. Sponsors will be working, of course, for a compromise, the original proposal is not conceded a chance. The purpose now is to save face, not to reorganize the judiciary.

Here is an amazing situation. It actually is proposed that a measure flatly rejected by a non-partisan opposition and upheld apologetically by its original sponsors is to be crammed down the country's throat to save face for the President.

Doesn't any one bother any more about saving the face of the country, or must an idea once it has been offered be imposed merely because it's embarrassing to admit that some ideas are bad?

German Pacifism.

Distance lends enchantment to some views but not to the American view of what Gen. Goering blandly calls German pacifism.

It probably is true, as the lords and masters of the third reich tirelessly explain, that the German people want peace. There is a wide gap though between what people want and what they get.

The gap will not be bridged in Germany's case by the policies of a one party government which asserts without apology that European peace must be bought at the Nazi price.

The price includes a rebel victory in Spain, necessary according to Adolf Hitler because Germany wants to obtain certain minerals from Spanish mines. It includes seizure of colonial territory. It includes freedom from interruption in the rearming of Germany. It includes in fact everything the Nazis may choose to want and feel able to obtain.

In Europe, where the anniversary of the signing of the Versailles treaty, June 28, 1919, has just been observed grimly and with dark forebodings of the eventual collapse of peace, German antics may seem logical by-products of the new tension which pervades continental politics. In the United States what the new Germany [illegible] euphemistically call "pacifism" can seem no better than it is—the deception of a nation seemingly doomed to light the fuse of the next European explosion.

Politicians Aren't Warriors.

There's no comfort in assurance that Europe's doughty generals are not ready for war and that there can be therefore no war.

It's true, no doubt, that politicians do a lot of martial shouting for home consumption and that it shouldn't be taken too seriously. But it's not politicians in the present case who are throwing the hottest sparks into the Spanish powder keg. It's the generals and admirals, themselves.

Japan invaded Manchuria against the will of some powerful politicians because the generals had more power than the [illegible]ians. The military machines which autocratic governments develop to maintain themselves in power can and some times do turn upon their political sponsors. Soldiers are easily intoxicated by promises of [illegible].

Japan in Manchuria and Italy in Ethiopia developed a new technique of invasion—punitive expeditions conducted without the formality of a declaration of war. In many respects the presence of foreign troops in Spain and their activities there suggest that the same technique is being demonstrated again, but this time in Europe, where intense rivalries make tolerance of an infiltration impossible. Therein lies the danger of war.

In the frantic effort to understand what is going on and in the even more frantic effort to prevent an open outbreak of war it can not be overlooked that warlords who theoretically are not ready to fight may be a jump or two ahead of the politicians. They usually are.

The Reaction Against the CIO

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

COMPETENT observers in Michigan and Ohio and Pennsylvania report that for the time being the advance of the CIO has been checked by the resentment of the bystanders. [illegible] said on very good authority that [illegible] in the plants where the CIO has had the most success there is much evidence that [illegible] are now [illegible] finding it difficult to keep their members and collect [illegible]. In all the industrial centers there is a revulsion of feeling and a disposition to organize vigilantes to protect the masses [illegible] and to prevent the CIO from seizing plants by sitting down in them with armed mobs.

The behavior of the three governors confirms these reports. In Ohio the governor, Mr. Davey, is using the military forces of the state to suppress mass picketing, the tactics by which workers from one plant besiege another. In Pennsylvania the governor, Mr. Earle, after a most ingenious attempt to shut down the Bethlehem plant where the CIO has as yet virtually no organization, has beaten a retreat and covered it with a smoke screen about a third term for the President. In Michigan, where at the moment there is no serious strike [illegible], Mr. Murphy is about to approve a statute which in effect outlaws the mass picketing tactics of the CIO. Finally the President has now at last felt the impulse to make some remarks which have the flavor of nonpartisanship.

These actions have been taken by public officials whose whole political alliances are with labor; they are tempered only by their sensitiveness to the movements of public opinion. What they have done testifies to the fact that public opinion is on the move.

A Choice of Alternatives

The reaction now in progress against the CIO has as its spokesmen and [illegible] men who are fundamentally hostile to all genuine labor unions and to the realities of collective bargaining. This does not seem to be an unfair or an inaccurate characterization of Mr. Girdler. For though Mr. Girdler refuses to meet Mr. Lewis, there is no evidence that I know of that he is even willing to meet and deal with any union leader, however well recommended and however carefully fumigated. I do not think that Mr. Girdler is truly representative of the majority of American public opinion. But Mr. Girdler is [illegible] because the [illegible] has been compelled to [illegible] his career [illegible] struggling to produce steel and [illegible] and much [illegible] the CIO in their [illegible] the production of steel [illegible] alternatives [illegible] like the American democracy [illegible] inevitably throws its support [illegible] which does at least promise [illegible] community a going concern. [illegible] command of the Democrats there are men of sagacity [illegible] see what all this portends [illegible] the new deal labor policy [illegible] that unless it be revised [illegible] of labor will be dashed [illegible] and dangerous reaction.

The New Deal's Mistake

The [illegible] misconception of the new [illegible] policy lies in a failure to distinguish between agitation and government. [illegible] and Senator Wagner have taken the wholly mistaken view that the government can be used to promote organization and the solidarity of labor. They have therefore attempted to invite the union organizer to [illegible] promising him that the government will paralyze the employer who [illegible]. The ostensible philosophy of [illegible] act is that it simply rights [illegible] between the organized employer and the unorganized workers. But [illegible] of the Wagner act is to promote a forced growth of [illegible] in the hothouse of the federal [illegible].

[illegible] many ways an historical [illegible] we have seen in other countries [illegible] movements raised [illegible] organized labor. We have never [illegible] government which has sought [illegible] the labor movement it would like [illegible].

[illegible] is what is being attempted. [illegible] philosophy of the Wagner new [illegible] a transfer of [illegible] the [illegible] in which [illegible] strength [illegible] will lie in a combination of subsidized farmers and organized industrial workers. They think of themselves as the leaders of a radical farmer-labor party. But in this country there is no labor party for them to lead. And having sublime confidence in the [illegible] of government to do anything they have set out to create a labor movement by the use of the power of government.

Law Enforcement Weakened

In order to do this they have had to sacrifice even the appearance of even-handed enforcement of the law. As a result in the troubled communities particularly, but also throughout the land, they are producing the conviction that public authority is neither impartial nor strong. This is an incitement to all the irresponsible, unstable and mischievous careerists who are out to exploit labor for their personal power or their ideological ends, and the behavior of these people necessarily provokes the bystanders to use lawless means to reestablish order.

For when government repudiates its obligations to be impartial and abdicates its

EVIDENCE of a prehistoric race of cave dwellers that buried its women and children and cremated its men has been discovered by University of Kentucky anthropologists in rock shelters of eastern Kentucky.

The anthropologists—Profs. W. S. Webb and W. D. Funkhouser—completely excavated the New Ranch shelter in Menifee county and reported it differed greatly from caves in surrounding counties.

There was a decided dearth of flint, pottery and bone but an unusual amount of vegetable matter and some surprisingly fine fabric.

The excavating party was puzzled by a series of large pits dug in the subsoil instead of in the ash beds as was the usual custom. It was believed the pits were used for storage purposes.

Other unique features of the cave were several curious masses of matting, cane grass and fragments of textiles. It was believed they were used as mattresses or possibly as bags for transporting food to the shelter.

Only one burial site was found in the shelter proper. Located between two large boulders, the grave contained the fragmentary remains of a male infant. The grave was crudely dug, leading to the belief the burial was hasty and informal.

In no other shelters in Kentucky have graves containing male bones been found, although large numbers of female skeletons have been discovered.

Honoring Gutenberg

BY DR. A. RUPPEL
Director, Gutenberg Museum
Mainz, Germany

IN CONSIDERING outstanding inventions that helped men to lighten their burden of daily work and to encourage their productivity, we must recognize that the greatest one of all was amazingly simple.

Thus printing is uncomplicated. The idea of producing letters so as to compose words and to impress them on paper with ink was in the air for a long time. It was completely logical.

Yet it was two thousand years before a blessed man made the idea practical.

This is actually the case with the art of printing. Many technical procedures applied for printing which still make part of modern typography were known and well executed a good time before John Gutenberg. The ancient Babylonians and Assyrians carved their seal stamps. Greeks and Romans used iron forms from which they coined and cast money. Potters impressed their name by means of wooden stamps into earthenware before hardening it in fire.

Ancient Methods

Egyptians had designs printed on materials by dyed wooden molds. Single letters were already used in Roman schools for arranging words in order to teach children how to read. All these methods are very ancient. The genius of the inventor had to unite all of these preliminary elements to a technique of printing thus effecting a deciding development in intellectual life.

The handmold finally brought the solution to cast movable type with utmost exactness in a very strong material which enabled men to produce large books. The handmold is a rather primitive instrument. It contains a rectangular space with one side shut up by the matrix (a piece of metal into which a letter is engraved). By filling liquid lead into the hole of the mould one obtains a metal piece with a type on the upper end.

However important the handmold may be, its technical construction is so very uncomplicated that early printers could easily make it themselves when they established a printing office in another town.

Notably Simple

It results from the foregoing that the art of printing in comparison to other inventions is extraordinarily simple from the technical point of view. This simplicity is a main feature of the greatness of the invention. But this is in fact not its only merit. Outstanding events can only be appreciated after their effect and their success. No other discovery nor invention of human spirit could ascertain such a far reaching influence as the art of printing did. For this invention attributed to the coming events of history. It enabled all progress in technique and brought knowledge among people.

Only typography allowed men to communicate their experience and science to contemporaries and generations to come, who on this basis were in a position to make new discoveries and new inventions. Many of these later discoveries may have been more difficult and harder to make than printing, but none of them can equal typography in importance and efficiency.

For that reason the exclamation of the French poet Victor Hugo is not exaggerated when he says in his novel Notre Dame de Paris: "The invention of printing has in fact absolutely changed the face of the earth and brought about a revolution in all intellectual life."

Our days give a welcome opportunity to all nations to commemorate this great event and to render homage to the illustrious inventor. In three years, this will be in 1940, the invention of printing completes its fifth centenary.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Public interest of late has centered on the right to work and on the right to strike, which latter term has usually been construed to mean also the right by one group of workmen peacefully to persuade other workmen to refrain from work.

These phases have a significant meaning under the federal Constitution and as recently as May 25 of this year the supreme court of the United States interpreted them again. Today that decision and many previous decisions on these same points are the supreme law of the land in labor disputes.

But the law of the land because it is contained in declarations made at different times or because it is not reiterated by public officials often for the benefit of the laymen is sometimes ignored. Hence it is important at this time for the citizen both on the labor side and the employer side to read again some of the fundamentals about which by the way there has been relatively little difference of opinion by the courts both federal and state over a period of many years.

Thus Justice Brandeis, outstanding liberal of the supreme court of the United States, in his May 25 opinion on behalf of the court discusses peaceful picketing as that term is used by many states in their laws governing labor relations. He says: "That term as used implies not only absence of violence but absence of any unlawful act. It precludes the intimidation of customers. It precludes any form of physical obstruction or interference with the plaintiff's business (the employer)."

Justice Brandeis in the same opinion explained the limits of peaceful picketing by referring to a previous case—Truax vs. Corrigan—wherein the court pointed out that it was wrong for pickets to engage in conduct which was not lawful persuasion or inducing or was not a mere appeal to the sympathetic and would-be aid of customers by a simple statement of the fact of the strike and the request to withhold patronage.

Justice Brandeis declared on the other hand that the conduct condemned in the Truax case consisted of libelous attacks and abusive epithets against the employer and his friends, libelous and disparaging statements against the plaintiff's (employer's) business, threat and intimidation directed against customers and employes.

The whole principle of the right to work and the right not to be molested or intimidated or coerced is to be found in the Fourteenth amendment to the federal Constitution which says:

"No state shall deprive any person of life, [illegible] property without due process of law nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws."

Here are some of the important precedents which the supreme court of the United States has established [illegible] particular attention:

While this court has not attempted to define with exactness the liberty thus guaranteed, the term has received much consideration and some of the included things have been definitely stated. Without doubt, it denotes not merely freedom from bodily restraint but also the right of the individual to contract, to engage in any of the common occupations of life, to acquire useful knowledge, to marry, establish a home and bring up children, to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience and generally to enjoy those privileges long recognized at common law as essential to the orderly pursuit of happiness by free men." The quotation is from the case known as Meyer vs. Nebraska. There is another which reads as follows:

Food Without Fuss

NEW YORK, July 1.—There is always a pleasant [illegible] memory after a visit to Papa Moneta's little Italian restaurant niched in a [illegible] of Mulberry street. It offers the elegance of [illegible] without the [illegible] of the pretentious places uptown. Food [illegible].

Things are [illegible] as they always were at Moneta's, a [illegible] dining space impressive for its cleanliness. And Papa Moneta is always about. So are Mama Moneta and their son. Papa greeting and darting into the kitchen, Mama at the cashier's desk and the son helping both.

Almost every radio critic has at some time or other hurled a javelin at the voice of H. V. Kaltenborn over the air waves. Yet the Kaltenborn of the radio and the lecture platform are two entirely different voice personalities—a phenomenon not unusual. After a recent lecture opening, Kaltenborn as though sensing the thought of his listeners smiled and said: "Yes, it is he—and I wish to say that the pristine purity of my voice seems to be so affected by the mechanics of radio in spite of the efforts of radio engineers to overcome the defects that I have been and still feel myself to be when broadcasting in quite the position of the guest in the following verse:

I sat with the Duchess at tea.
It was just as I knew it would be.
For her organs internal made
noises infernal
And everyone thought it was me."

The most tragic of voice control failures, however, was that of the late John Gilbert of the movies. The highest salaried and most popular male star, with the advent of the talkies he went into complete eclipse with his first speaking role. Cast as a romantic swashbuckler his voice came out in thin piping that made the audiences rock with laughter. Although the difficulty was later remedied the damage had been done. Audiences lost taste for him. A fact which broke his heart and contributed to his early demise. Jack Dempsey experienced something of the same medicine in a stage role when his voice across the footlights jetted into a shrill soprano. The audience laughed and Jack with them. He didn't want to be an actor anyway, plague take it!

Thingumbobs: Tony Wons while convalescing from an illness is making violins in a Wisconsin town. Mascagni, the conductor, likes pretzels with breakfast coffee. Brock Pemberton is the only theatrical producer without a press agent. He used to be a newspaperman himself. Joe Cook's former stooge, Dave Chasen, is running a restaurant in Hollywood. Variety recently got the biggest free ad of the decade on a Saturday Evening Post cover by Norman Rockwell. It showed a vaudeville troupe with a copy of Variety plainly displayed in his pocket.

In turning for another look at a window display today I bumped into an Old Man Grump with barrel cuffs and side-wheeled whiskers. "I'm sorry," I murmured. "You could be sorrier," he snapped, and with an appraising glance added: "And a durn sight purtier."

WILD MAN FROM BORNEO

"He doesn't look very wild"

Strenuous Life Indeed

But Congressmen Manage To Bear Up, Nevertheless.

BY PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON, July 1.—It's a hard life these congressmen lead—to work at 10 or sometimes 9 in the morning, committee sessions or personal correspondence until 12, duty on the floor three to five days a week until 4 or 5. Tough hours for men.

No wonder they would rather be back home at the church picnic saying: "Remember you? Of course I remember good old Dave Johannsen from Temple Creek. Not Johannsen? Jones you say? Why, how could I make that mistake? Certainly, it's Bill Jones. What did you get for your wheat last fall? Oh, that's right, you're the Grocer Jones. Well, we'll have to be getting better acquainted."

Tough Days Rare

There are tough days in this congressional business when the hounds back home are after the member for slipping up on the WPA park project and the White House is bearing down for a yes vote on the relief bill.

There are days when committee sessions are just plain brain work, correspondence is piled high and every important bill on the calendar seems to come up at once. But such days are rare except toward the very end of the session.

Day in and day out the work never appears especially hard. $10,000 a year is pretty good salary, and office space and well paid secretaries are supplied by the government.

The average senator need not be envious of Vice President Garner who decided to get his pressure down by returning to Uvalde to fish. Senators can go away for extended stays if they wish, and frequently do.

A few holy cries used to go up at Secretary of State William Jennings Bryan, who had a penchant for making a Chautauqua speaking tour occasionally on company time. But senators do the same, and for pay too. They usually expect mileage and occasionally a stipend when they are called to New York or French Lick Springs to address the Chamber of Commerce or the associated pickle workers.

Nice Work

Of course they can be called back to work on short notice if their fellow senators want to put them on record in a roll call. Some of the elder statesmen remember how the sergeant at arms rounded up senators in droves back in 1917 when President Wilson put the heat on them by keeping congress in session 18 months without a let-up.

But that again is a rare impairment of the congressional dignity and likely to arise only if President Roosevelt decides his whole heavy-duty program must be handled this session.

All in all it is nice work and you could count on your fingers the number who would throw it over to get the same income from running a string of filling stations.

Glancing Backward

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Friday, July 1, 1927.

Seven more deaths from drowning and heat prostration were reported in Ohio's first heat wave of the summer, bringing the total deaths to 16 in the state. The temperature in Marion continued above 90 with predictions that showers would break the hot spell on Saturday.

The Red Cross swimming and life saving school to be conducted for two months opened at Crystal Lake under the direction of Jack Houghton.

Mrs. J. W. Jolley gave a dinner at her home on South Seffner avenue complimenting Mrs. Loretta Tilton, whose marriage was to take place later in July.

R. P. Murphy and family of South Prospect street went to Cedar Point to attend the Knights of Columbus convention.

The Knights of Pythias softball team defeated the Marion Steam Shovel office team 5 to 4 and the Stars were victorious over the Kappas 7 to 6 in Commercial league games. Smallwood pitched for the K. of P., Bush for the Shovel Bank, for the Kappas and Kerr for the Stars.

John J. Ryan, 58, died at his home on Silver street.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Sunday, July 1, 1917.

Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Smith of Patten street were injured in an automobile accident near Bellevue.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Anderson of Davids street.

At a union temperance meeting held in Epworth church, W. J. Hoshel of Columbus and Dr. A. C. Bane of Washington, financial secretary of the national Anti-Saloon league, urged all churches in Marion to organize for the coming prohibition election in Ohio. Dr. Bane said: "America is fighting two great wars today. One is against the autocracy of Germany and the other is against the liquor traffic."

An explosion of accumulated gas under the boiler at a tile mill shook the entire village of Morral and did damage estimated at $300.

The Marion Questions defeated Delaware in a baseball game at Lincoln park 11 to 9. Stichter pitched for Marion.

DEATH CLAIMS S. L. LEEKA, 80

Former Huber Co. Representative Passes Away at Home on E. Center St.

Sylvanus L. Leeka, 80, a resident of Marion for nearly 50 years who was associated with the Huber Manufacturing Co. for 27 years, died last night at 11 o'clock at his home at 613 East Center street. He had been ill six weeks.

Mr. Leeka came to Marion in 1887 and had lived here since that time, except for nearly three years when he lived at DeGraff. He traveled over many states while in the employ of the Huber company and was employed in the drafting room during the last five years of his time with the company. For 16 years he conducted a tire and vulcanizing shop at 169 East Center street, retiring in 1932.

He was a grandson of early pioneers in Ohio, his grandparents coming to Clinton county about 1815, when the country was an unbroken forest. His paternal grandparents were Philip and Elizabeth Hodgson Leeka, natives of Virginia and North Carolina, respectively. His maternal grandparents were John Hockett and Martha Cox Hockett, both of North Carolina.

Mr. Leeka was born June 10, 1857, at New Vienna, O., to Jonathan and Mary Hockett Leeka, and was married there to Miss Ora Ellis, who survives him. A daughter, Miss Caryl E. Leeka of 613 East Center street, a son, Warren C. Leeka of Columbus, a brother, Alpheus Leeka of Wilmington, O., and a sister, Mrs. Ellen Mullenix of Hillsboro, also survive. He was a member of the Epworth M. E. church and Marion lodge No. 70, F. and A. M.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. at the C. E. Curtis funeral home on East Center street, with burial in Marion cemetery. Rev. Edward T. Waring, pastor of the Epworth M. E. church, will officiate.

The body will be taken to the Leeka home from the Curtis funeral home Friday at 1:30 p. m., and will remain there until Saturday at 10 a. m., when it will be returned to the funeral home. Friends may call there until time of the services.

JUNE EDGES AHEAD IN MARRIAGE RACE

Dan Cupid finally won out in June after a close race ringing up a total of 62 marriage licences and beating his own record of June last year. Until the last few days of the month, he lagged behind his previous total. In June of last year 50 licenses were issued.

Of the 62 couples granted licenses in probate court, 50 of them have been married, according to license returns on record. Court officials said most of the remaining 12 probably have been married also but that the ministers have not returned the marriage certificates to court.

Judge Hector S. Young in common pleas court established a record of sorts by granting nine divorces in a single morning last Thursday and granting 14 and dismissing one in a three-day period. His total for June is 16 granted and two dismissed.

Wives won 13 of the decrees and husbands three. The grounds cited were 10 for gross neglect, two for imprisonment, four for wilful absence and two for wilful absence and gross neglect.

SENATE PROBES TYPE OF POLICE WEAPONS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 1—A Chicago police official conceded to senate investigators today that some of his subordinates might have been armed with special weapons not furnished by the city, when they broke up a Memorial day demonstration of steel strikers.

Sergeant Lawrence J. Lyons told the senate civil liberties committee that police may have used "other than regulation clubs" in the encounter, which resulted in the death of 10 demonstrators.

Senator Thomas, Democrat of Utah, remarked that he was "very interested" in discovering whether any weapons had been furnished to the police by the Republic Steel company, near whose gates the battle occurred.

Showing Lyons a photograph of the police line just before it went into action, he remarked:

"Now here is a most intriguing kind of club—you note it has a sharpened end."

"Oh, I dont' think so," Lyons replied quickly. "Policemen never intend to harm anybody, and a sharpened club might hurt someone."

The loquacious, excitable little Irishman insisted that the demonstrators had marched toward the strike-closed plant heavily armed with sticks and stones, and had "insulted" the police who barred their way.

Williams of Grand Prairie township, was named chairman of the committee selected by the protesting group.

TWO SUSPECTS HELD IN KIDNAP - MURDER

Member of Prominent Los Angeles Family and Ex-Convict Under Arrest.

By The Associated Press

INGLEWOOD, Calif., July 1 — Two men, one the scion of a prominent Los Angeles family, the other a transient ex-convict, were held today in connection with the brutal kidnap-murder of three young girls.

The ex-convict, Luther Dow, 33, was charged with suspicion of murder after he was identified as the man who played with the three victims before they disappeared last Saturday.

Officials withheld the name of the other chief suspect. Capt. William Penprase of the sheriff's office said he was removed in a drunken stupor from his home to an Inglewood hospital late last night.

The man has been under scrutiny and his home closely guarded since last Monday, Penprase said, when he returned home with bloody clothing and in a semi-hysterical condition. He remained in his home drinking heavily.

A crowd of 2,000 irate citizens pressed about the Inglewood city hall last night as Dow was transferred from the Los Angeles central police station.

Shouts of "hang him" went up as the manacled prisoner was led into the hall.

Dow was arrested yesterday in Los Angeles. He carried a woman's handkerchief which Mrs. Merle Everett, mother of two of the slain children, said resembled one she believed one of her daughters had when abducted.

Dow also carried a rusted roller skate key which Don Oliver, police officer and uncle of the Everett children, said was similar to one he gave the girls.

Later, Dow was identified by Mrs. Jenny Vice and Mrs. Helen Dlaid of Inglewood as the man they saw playing with the murdered children in Centinela park last Saturday.

NO. 1 COUPLE ON SECRET HONEYMOON

ducted the same ceremony for Franklin's father when he married Eleanor Roosevelt in New York.

The group of more than 300 prominent persons assembled in the candlelit interior of the duPont family church at Christiana Hundred appeared oblivious to the gathering storm.

Minister Gives Blessing

It was a hushed and watchful group. The aged minister was praying that the couple "may ever remain in perfect love and peace together," that their home may be "a haven of blessing and peace."

Then he joined their right hands:

"Those whom God hath joined together let no man put asunder. I pronounce that they are man and wife."

As the stalwart youth and the slender girl in her cloud of tulle knelt on a white satin pillow, Rev. Peabody added his blessing. He completed the ceremony which was begun by the Rev. Frederick Ashton, pastor of the duPont church.

There was a stir in the audience as Dr. Charles Courboin, the organist, began Mendelssohn's recessional.

As Ethel turned slowly to face the wedding guests for the first time, her eyes were bright. Her blond hair shone throught the orange-blossom designs of her Juliet cap which held a four-tier billowing white tulle veil, 12 feet long. The shirred bodice of her white tulle gown was caught into a V neckline by wax orange blossoms. These also circled her slim waist above the bouffant skirt. She carried an antique ivory prayer book with her bouquet of Dover orchids.

She looked up at Franklin, a head taller than she as they walked down the aisle. He whispered something. She whispered back. They both laughed.

The eyes of the groom's family on the right side of the church and the bride's family on the left followed every step. At the door, they stopped. In happy humor, they posed for pictures, stepped in a limousine and drove away.

JOE LOUIS FINED ON SPEED CHARGE

By The Associated Press

LORAIN O., July 1—Mayor Harvey Dier of nearby Sheffield Lake village said today that Joe Louis, heavyweight boxing champion, paid a fine of $15.20 for his chauffeur, who was charged with speeding last night.

Dier said Louis, with his bodyguard, chauffeur, and two friends were brought before him by Deputy Marshals Henry Miller and Kenneth Hellinger who charged the chauffeur with driving 60 miles per hour.

"I'm Joe Louis," the marshal quoted him as saying, "and I've got an appointment in Cleveland at 10 o'clock." He wasn't detained long, Mayor Dier reported.

Senate Votes Stop-Gap Fund To Meet Ohio Bills

Action Taken as Legislative Jangle Over Two-Year Budget Continues.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 1 — The Ohio senate voted today to appropriate $11,221,000 for operation of state departments during the next three months while it argues with the house over the 1937-38 budget.

A "stop-gap" appropriation bill was approved, 23 to 6, and sent to the house, which probably will not meet until Tuesday, although it is possible that it might meet tonight.

Meanwhile, most state departments functioned without the legislature's authorization for expenditures. A $20,222,000 partial appropriation bill enacted in January, expired Wednesday at midnight.

A conference committee of senators and representatives struggled in an atmosphere of pessimism to reconcile differences of their two houses over departmental budgets for the biennium.

Senate members, disgruntled by what they said was failure to make much progress in agreeing on savings, were ready to retire and let new conferees replace them. The house members, on the other hand, said they were making progress and saw no necessity for bringing in new conferees.

Lieut. Gov. Paul P. Yoder said today after a conference with Gov. Davey that the governor assured him house members of the conference committee would not be replaced.

Yoder said that senate committee members might be changed "in order to show good faith in attempting to reach an agreement."

In the event of such a change, Yoder indicated that Senators Horace W. Baggott, Democrat of Montgomery county, "no new taxes" bloc leader, and William Foss, Democrat of Mercer county, probably would be succeeded by Senators Bernard E. Donovan, Democrat of Lucas county, and Emerson Campbell, Democrat of Belmont county, chairman of the senate finance committee.

Yoder said he would take steps to see that "all outside influences" were removed from their deliberations if new managers were named.

No Immediate Trouble

The stop-gap bill is designed to safeguard the state against a collapse in finances and to protect the no-new-taxes bloc against being stampeded into accepting a biennial bill which it might dislike.

Leaders of the bloc and spokesmen for Gov. Davey both said there would be no acute shortage of funds before July 15, date of the next state employe pay roll.

State departments, at the beginning of nearly every biennium must wait about three weeks or longer before the legislature passes a partial appropriation bill.

Lieut. Gov. Paul Yoder and Governor Davey conferred last night on the budget situation but Yoder said he and the governor agreed only that something should be done speedily to provide funds to operate the state.

The senate pushed through its stop-gap appropriations bill in a session which began last night and lasted until early today.

At 12:15 a. m. opponents of the bill forced the clerk to start a reading of the 70,000 word document which would have required as much as four hours. Usually bills are read by title only.

The clerk expedited matters by reading the totals instead of each budget itemization, and thus was able to finish in about a half-hour. The senate's journal showed the bill read "in full."

Declares Apology Due

Democratic floor leader Keith Lawrence of Cleveland opposed consideration of the stop-gap plan. Republican Floor Leader Verner E. Metcalf of Marietta, who supported the bill, declared he believed every member of the senate owed the citizens of Ohio an "apology" for failure to complete a biennial appropriations bill.

The stop-gap vote then was taken and found only Lawrence and Senators Byrne, McElroy and Shearer in opposition. Six members who were present did not vote.

The house went into an indefinite recess Monday, with intimations at that time that it might return tonight but probably would not do so until next Tuesday.

Prior to the stop-gap discussion, the senate passed, 33 to 0, a bill to appropriate $1,512,500 for highway construction. It had been decided to separate this item from the general budget so that funds would be available more readily. It, too, now goes to the house.

HANDWRITING EXPERT CALLED IN VOTE CASE

By The Associated Press

IRONTON, O., July 1—Markings on ballots which the state contends were altered in an attempt to "throw" the Lawrence county commission election were identified by a handwriting expert today as having been made by County Auditor Pearl A. Pratt, Dan C. Rapp, resigned deputy auditor, and Miss Elizabeth Griffith.

W. C. Brumfield, illustrating his testimony with charts, said that in his opinion sample crossmarks made by Pratt, Rapp and Miss Griffith for the court showed the same characteristics as the markings on 200 ballots presented by the state as those which were tampered with.

Testimony of Miss Elizabeth Griffith, former county relief director, concluded the defense late yesterday. She calmly denied all charges against her and said that she had not seen any of her codefendants in the court house the day the state charges the ballots were changed.

Besides Miss Griffith, those on trial are County Auditor Pearl A. Pratt, former deputy Sheriff Wade Webb, and the defeated Republican commissioner candidate, William C. Dickens. All have testified in their defense, denying the story of Dan C. Rapp, the state's star witness. Rapp said he abled Pratt and Miss Griffith in altering the ballots, then told Dickens the precincts in which to demand a recount.

ing," he stated. In explaining the work of reform, he said modern reformers must be willing to take modern scientific facts, and pointed out as a challenge to the young people the sponsoring of cleaner governmental practice, actual world peace and cleaner personal living.

Musical Program

Music yesterday afternoon included a violin solo by Miss Pauline Erow, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. J. W. Baker, both of Marion, and Miss Lois Mae Goodrich of Warren entertained with two readings. Letters and telegrams of greetings were received from other state councils and an airmail letter was received from Mrs. Mary Jennings, a former president of the Marion County W. C. T. U., who is living in California. Dr. Peter Wiseman, dean of theology at Lorn Park college, Port Credit, Ontario, Canada, spoke briefly on the method of government liquor control in Canada. In discussing the work of the council he urged the group to be on the defensive and offensive side of their cause and to realize the moral obligation to right the evil of alcohol in the country. "Keep always in mind the example of Jesus Christ, and keep faith in your cause," he advised. Mrs. Viola D. Romans of Columbus, state president of the W. C. T. U. discussed the highlights of the state W. C. T. U. meeting to be held at Lakeside, July 16 and 17 and the state president, Mr. Hurd, discussed "How Are We Going to Face the Problem of Race Prejudice?" Persuasion through kindness rather than by driving was given as a universal pattern to follow, he pointed out. "The problem would be greatly simplified if we all realized that all are neighbors," he said. The gavel used at the meeting yesterday was one presented Mrs. Romans by the women of Australia to whom the Ohio women were hostesses at the international W. C. T. U. convention held recently in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Romans was accompanied to Marion by her daughter, Mrs. Blanche McVey of Columbus.

"DRIFTING" OAKLAND REVIVAL SUBJECT

"Drifting" was the subject of Dr. Peter Wiseman, in his sermon at the Oakland church revival services last night. His text was taken from Hebrew 2:3.

In part, he said, "If you consider Christ as a great teacher, then He is put on the level with other leaders of religion. His salvation is the one and only for human need. The gift of God is proof of His love to man."

"If we neglect we lose everything that God has given. His salvation is greater than anything in the world. Greater than society, greater than any achievement in human life. To neglect or to drift from an experience of salvation, is to neglect the greatest and highest gift of God."

Four persons responded to the altar call. Dr. Wiseman will preach each night at 7:30 o'clock, with the closing revival Sunday, with three services, at 10:30 a. m., and 2:30 and 7:30 p. m. The public is invited to attend.

OHIO WHEAT CROP ESTIMATES LOWERED

Rust, Wind and Rain Will Cut Yield, Expert Says.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 1—Rust, winds and floods have slashed Ohio wheat crops, but Dr. J. I. Falconer, chief of Ohio State university's rural economics department, said today it was impossible to estimate the total damage.

On June 1 an estimate was made of 50,000,000 bushels for Ohio's 2,150,000 acres of wheat, which far surpassed the 37,000,000 bushel average for the past five years, Dr. Falconer said. The average wheat acreage for Ohio is approximately 2,000,000.

"The Ohio wheat yield would have been above average if rust, winds and floods had not cut into production," Dr. Falconer said.

"Now, however, it is impossible to do more than guess at the total yield. Prices are being maintained for many reasons. There has been very little carry-over from last year. The crop in Ohio will be less than was originally estimated, and the western yield will be shorter than was expected."

CANTON MIBSTER LEADING TOURNEY

By The Associated Press

WILDWOOD, N. J., July 1—Bill Kloss, 14, of Canton, O., held the lead today as the national marble tournament entered its third day. He won 13 of his sets yesterday for a total of 26 won and 4 lost to take top place from Harold Crandall, 11, who has won 23 out of 30. June Lapham, 15, of Cleveland, the only girl in the tournament, got back in the running yesterday by winning four consecutive games—good enough for a fifth place tie in the Northern league with Bill Leach of Sandusky, O. Each has won 11 and lost 18.

CULT LEADER GUILTY OF MORALS CHARGE

Hunt, Follower of Father Divine, Convicted by Jury in Los Angeles.

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, July 1—John Wuest Hunt, follower of Father Divine, was under conviction today on charges of transporting Delight Jewett, 17, from her Denver, Colo., home to Beverly Hills, Calif., for immoral purposes.

The jury which last night found Hunt guilty acquitted his co-defendants, Mrs. Agnes Gardner, Mrs. Elizabeth Peters and H. B. Smith.

Federal Judge Leon Yankwich set Friday as a date for sentencing Hunt and hearing pleas for a new trial.

When the verdict was returned, Hunt asked:

"Why can not these poor unfortunate individuals understand me?"

Hugh MacBeth, Hunt's Negro attorney referred to the defendants in his closing arguments as "these poor saps."

"Consider these poor saps," MacBeth pleaded. "They were rich in one sense, but poor in the wonderful things of life, until they struck a new channel of the spirit. That was after they had the religious awakening through Father Divine.

"John Wuest Hunt may be 'a dumbbell,' as they say, such as when he threw $1,000 bills around. * * * He is 33 years old but he is a baby compared to Delight Jewett. She is the smart one in this business.

Judge Yankwich collapsed yesterday while giving instructions to the jury and had to be assisted to his chambers. He had complained of the heat.

Hunt faces a maximum sentence of five years in prison.

MORE THAN 200 AT FISHING INAUGURAL

State Lake's Opening Near Mt. Gilead Draws Crowd Despite Chilly Weather.

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, July 1—Between 200 and 300 Ohio fishermen braved cold weather to be among the first in quest of their favorite sport when state lakes park officially opened here last midnight.

A blast from a shotgun in the hands of Guy Thompson, Morrow county game protector, was the signal that the lakes were open for the 1937 season. Although the opening day crowd was kept at a minimum by unfavorable weather conditions, hundreds of fishermen are expected to come here over the holiday week-end.

No fishing had been permitted in the lakes until last night, although bass season had opened June 16. Fishermen who were among the first to fish the lake waters reported an abundance of catches despite the unfavorable conditions, but large catches were reported by early arrivals.

The lake is stocked with bass, crappies, blue gills, and perch. No one is permitted to fish in the lake without a license, Game Protector Thompson, pointed out for the benefit of those who plan to fish here.

DAILY PICKETING OF 15 STORES PLANNED

years past the food dealers individually followed their choice about Wednesday afternoon closing, but that this year an effort was begun to bring about 100 per cent closing.

All dealers were asked twice to cooperate, but a number of them refused, some of them stating they would agree to close if all food stores closed. Fifteen refused to sign a closing agreement when it became apparent that a few would not close, he said.

Association members discussed the possibility of appealing to city council for an ordinance fixing opening and closing hours for food stores.

Mr. McDaniel said 110 food dealers closed yesterday as compared with the 15 remaining open.

Will Hold Meeting

The association plans to hold a meeting Friday night or next Tuesday night to complete arrangements for daily picketing of stores beginning Tuesday.

Inquiry among some of the operators of picketed stores said the picketing yesterday did not hurt their business and that they did not intend to make any effort to interfere with peaceful picketing.

Several of them said they are willing to close "if all food dealers close," but that they will not close their stores and stand idly by while their regular customers can go elsewhere and purchase food.

MORGAN NAMED IN DEMOCRATIC GROUP

David Morgan, [illegible] son of Dr. and Mrs. E. H. Morgan of South Greenwood street, has been appointed to the committee which will be in charge of the dinner and general attendance at a statewide meeting of younger Democrats at Indian Lake July 17-18. He will also represent Marion county at the national meeting at Indianapolis July 19-21. Morgan is a past president of the Young Democratic club of Marion county.

MARION LOANS PAY $64,500 IN DIVIDENDS

Semi-annual dividends amounting to $64,500 were credited today to stockholders in Marion's three building and loan companies today in payment of semi-annual dividends declared by their directors.

The Marion companies whose dividends, based on rates of two and three per cent, make up this total are the Marion Federal Savings & Loan association, the Home Building, Savings & Loan Co. and the Peoples Building, Savings & Loan Co.

Interest credits and dividends amounting to $12,000,000, the most in seven years were distributed to a million depositors in state building, loan and savings institutions, it was reported by Ohio Building Association league in an Associated Press dispatch today.

According to Don L. Tobin of the league, loan associations have just finished the most prosperous six months since 1928. He said that for the period $62,000,000 in loans were made, $40,000,000 more than were made throughout 1936. Tobin said $20,000,000 loans were made for home construction.

INLAND STEEL OPENS AS STRIKE IS ENDED

its members only, and the acceptance of Inland steel "labor policy."

The settlement was on these specific items:

1. No discrimination.
2. Inland Steel's labor policy of May 29 and "and the statement attached thereto" will be carried out.
3. All grievances "within the scope of the labor policy of May 26" to be settled in the manner provided in that policy, with the Indiana commissioner of labor as "final" authority if other settlement proves unsatisfactory.

Governor Townsend, as the settlement was reached, immediately demobilized militia which he had called out only a few hours before.

There was no break in the strike as it affects the three other "Little Steel" corporations — Bethlehem, Republic and Youngstown Sheet & Tube. President Frank Purnell of the latter company, which has plants in this steel making area, stated early today:

"We will sign no agreement with CIO."

Governor Townsend, after long conferences that lasted well past midnight, said that Youngstown Sheet & Tube had declined to accept terms similar to the Inland settlement.

Sheet & Tube, the governor said, asked him to remobilize the national guard as protection for its workers here. He refused to do so, whereupon the company cancelled its plans to reopen today.

The strike still grips Ohio's Mahoning valley at Youngstown, Warren and Niles, at Canton, Massillon and Cleveland; and in Johnstown, Pa., where the dynamiting of Bethlehem Steel corporation pipelines earlier this week forced a temporary shutdown after the mills had reopened.

At Johnstown the CIO leader James Mark, ignored a "suggestion" of the mayor that he leave town, and called a huge union rally for July 4 "to show that we can get 10,000 union men to Johnstown." The sheriff there, Michael Boyle, conferred with Mark and other strike leaders early today and then said there was "no reason" to ask for a return of martial law in Johnstown as requested by Mark.

Canton strike leaders are still debating the advisability of calling a general strike there in protest against the reopening of steel mills yesterday. Republic and Youngstown Sheet & Tube report such a back-to-work movement in the Mahoning valley as to bring production virtually up to its pre-strike basis.

Gus Hall, the Warren CIO organizer who has been named in police charges as "master mind" of a dynamiting terrorism campaign, telegraphed the police he would surrender, but that the charges were "an unadulterated frameup." Three strikers who are said to have made confessions naming Hall as the dynamite plotter are held under heavy bond.

There was no formal statement immediately forthcoming from Inland Steel officials. For SWOC, however, that union's chairman, Philip Murray, said at Pittsburgh that the settlement had his and other officers' "full approval."

Lewis Criticized

John L. Lewis, the leader of CIO who only yesterday was sharply excoriated by Rep. Cox, Georgia Democrat, in Washington, was not available for comment. About 10,000 members of the United Mine Workers of America, which he also heads, are still on strike, having been called out in sympathy with the steel strikes. They are the workers in the mines owned by the four steel companies involved.

COUNTY CMTC BOYS ENTER CAMP FRIDAY

Nine from Here To Take Annual Training at Fort Benjamin Harrison.

Nine young men from Marion county will begin terms at Fort Benjamin Harrison, near Indianapolis, Ind., tomorrow as the annual summer Citizens' Military Training Corps opens, F. H. Shade, county C. M. T. C. chairman, said today. The camp will last until July 31.

Approximately 2,000 from Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia will be at the opening sessions tomorrow. Col. George V. Strong, Eleventh Infantry, will be in charge, assisted by a staff of regular army officers.

The courses will include artillery, signal corps and infantry subjects. While military subjects will naturally predominate, the recreational side has not been overlooked. Sports and athletics have been arranged. Tennis, volleyball, baseball and swimming will be included.

The county quota had been set at 13, and the failure to fill the quota is an indication of improving employment conditions, Mr. Shade believes. The CCC enrollments from Marion county likewise affected the C. M. T. C., he said.

The young men attending from this county are: William Robert Kepler of Prospect, Russell Raymond McCoy of 248 Thew avenue, Max Richard Sechrist of 207 Olney avenue, Everett H. Williams of 268 North State street and Clifford Lake of 188 Hughes avenue. Names of the remaining four are not available at present, the lists having been sent to Columbus headquarters, Mr. Shade said.

Francis W. Durbin, Lima attorney and prominent Democrat, today announced his candidacy for the congressional seat left vacant by the appointment of Representative Frank L. Kloeb to the district federal judgeship, The Associated Press reported in a news dispatch from Lima.

Mr. Durbin has a wide acquaintance in Marion, his late wife having been Mrs. Agnes Kelly Durbin, a former Marion resident.

He is chairman of the Allen county Democratic executive committee, which gave unanimous indorsement to his candidacy.

Kloeb was appointed to the Fourth district bench by President Roosevelt and the senate approved the appointment.

Madge Offers Plan to Keep Collegians From Camp

LILLIAN [illegible] with keen bright eyes [illegible] that the Carolina [illegible] collegians [illegible] no come to the camp if she were [illegible] [illegible]

"Go as far as you like," she [illegible] [illegible] international complications of [illegible] I wouldn't ask you to get in bad with the [illegible] [illegible] service."

She laughed [illegible] with me and I explained the plan I had in mind for [illegible] the [illegible] collegians from finding the whereabouts of our camp.

"You see we get all [illegible] through the Gibbs family. [illegible] And at any of the [illegible] patronized [illegible] Nell Gibbs on the [illegible] will [illegible] could [illegible] this [illegible] with [illegible] guile."

"[illegible] love coming [illegible] Hank [illegible]

The sheep [illegible] she chuckled. "Frequently. I agree with you. They're entitled to a [illegible] break and [illegible] is the only time they can get it, for we're all invited to the Brix[illegible] next week when [illegible] and [illegible] get back from the [illegible] where they have been cruising."

Recalls Legacy

I hurriedly skirted that topic for ever present in my mind was the memory of the liberty I had taken with Lillian's legacy in easing Samuel Brixton from financial ruin. It made [illegible] difference to what Dicky called my Puritan conscience that [illegible] I had a right to do as I pleased with the large legacy which Robert Savarin who had loved her so long bequeathed to me [illegible] I might use it for her.

"If I could run down to Mrs Gibbs' home now [illegible] tents [illegible]

"Why [illegible] unered the [illegible] briskly. "I'll go ahead and get dressed and out of your way. I'll [illegible] engineer the [illegible] but [illegible] family after the girls get in here, and believe me this [illegible] along and get the [illegible] over with as soon as possible."

It won't take five minutes if she's at home. I [illegible] and hurried back to the camp garage where we keep our cars. Fortunately I did not meet either Dicky or Harry on the way [illegible] with Katherine where I had gone and that I would [illegible] Forthwith I reached [illegible] Gibbs home. Here to my relief I found Nell Gibbs [illegible] able to give me a few minutes of her time.

Nell Will Help

She listened with an amused smile while I outlined my scheme for the flagging of the collegians and told her of my [illegible] for it.

"I'll swing into action immediately," she said. "There are only a few people in [illegible] and I'll see them up within the next half hour. I'll make this part of the world safe for [illegible] or know the reason why. Bill and Hank are darlings and it isn't fair to spoil their only chance at seeing the girls by letting in an alien invasion. I'll stand by, [illegible] right hand Horatius and keep the bridge with thee."

She laughed gleefully and immeasurably cheered I drove rapidly back to the camp, parked the car and walked over to the Point camp where Dicky with his arms full of his belongings stared at me.

"Where did you come from, lady dear?" he hummed. "The last I saw of you was your retreating back with your face headed this way."

"She came out of the everywhere into the here," Lillian said in reply. "In words more suited to your [illegible] intelligence she's been down to the Gibbs place—on an errand for me. Now beat it and let us get dressed."

MUSSOLINI ATTACKS FRANCE AND BRITAIN

Editorial in Il Duce's Paper Says Nations Violate Spanish Pact.

By The Associated Press

Italian Premier Benito Mussolini's newspaper, Il Popolo D'Italia of Milan, accused Great Britain and France today of violating the Spanish non-intervention agreement.

An editorial, regarded by some observers as from the pen of Il Duce himself, declared Britain had supplied the Spanish Valencia government with arms and men and that six recruiting stations for war volunteers were operated in France.

British officials showed but scant interest in the latest attacks.

Instead, Britain looked to Rome and Berlin for suggestions to rebuild the international naval patrol around Spain, Germany and Italy having withdrawn their warships from the patrol designed to prevent arms and men from reaching either side in the civil conflict.

Both Germany and Italy have flatly rejected an Anglo-French proposal that Britain and France take over the entire patrol.

The non-intervention subcommittee will tackle the problem again tomorrow, its work further complicated by Portugal's action Tuesday night in withdrawing its observers on the Spanish frontier and suspending facilities for aiding British observers.

[illegible] When Kay Crane [illegible] ranch house and [illegible] Josh Hastings—who [illegible] the ranch and [illegible] her to the Flying [illegible] distrusting him, [illegible] Babe and Aunt [illegible] plans to rebuild, but [illegible] money goes to the [illegible] Ted Gaynor, a puncher [illegible] repulsively, sees the [illegible] own lumber and [illegible] She is on [illegible] the only available [illegible] when a Hastings [illegible] leaves her [illegible] the mesa. Meanwhile [illegible] tries to get an option on [illegible] timber [illegible] land.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

At Old Man Warren's.

[illegible] Red River over [illegible] that Kay and [illegible] morning. Ted's [illegible] were so absorb- [illegible] passed almost as [illegible] her actual [illegible] possible that he [illegible] only about 24 [illegible] of that meeting. [illegible] had such a dif- [illegible] any one but Kay [illegible] that act of des- [illegible] whole outlook on [illegible] changed. [illegible] of knowing that [illegible] had a home [illegible] enough to make [illegible] that he was to [illegible] that he was to [illegible] Kay, helping her and [illegible] opened up un- [illegible] hopes.

[illegible] Old Man Warren's [illegible] on the door. [illegible] it was pulled [illegible] found himself facing [illegible] prospector, who [illegible] suspicious surprise. [illegible] want?" he demanded.

"[illegible] to see you about buying [illegible] timber land you held on the south ridge of the Bitter Root," Ted answered. It was all he could do to keep from laughing aloud at the comical change that altered Old Man Warren's fierce expression.

"What's that?" he asked, his face screwed up and his eyes squinted as though he doubted the evidence of his senses. "What'd you say?"

Ted repeated his words.

"Gosh Halifax Almighty!" The prospector opened the door wide, and pulled Ted in, hastily closing it behind him. "I sure never thought I'd live to hear that! Yuh got any real money?" He blinked suspiciously.

"I've $25 to say I'm in earnest," Ted answered. "I'm offering you $100 for 10 acres and an option on another 10 at the same price. And I'm ready to pay that 25 right now on deposit."

"Say, young fella, what's yuh game?" Old Man Warren demanded. "Yuh been prospectin' up there?"

Ted laughed. "No. That's out of my line. I don't want it for myself. I'm buying it for Kay Crandon."

Old Man Warren's suspicious little eyes screwed up still more. "What's she after? Started already to have a fling with her insurance money?"

"Maybe." Ted gladly let his host put his own interpretation on Kay's purpose. The less he guessed Kay's vital need for the property the better.

"Well, if she wants it that bad, strikes me she'll pay more, now that she's got all that money to sling around," the old prospector announced with cunning. "You tell her I ain't selling for a mile less than $20 an acre."

Ted turned carelessly toward the door. "No point telling her that," he observed. "There's plenty of timberland to be bought at $10 an acre and even less. I'll just pick it up somewhere else without bothering you any more. Kay thought you'd like to sell and told me to give you the first chance." He pulled open the door. "So long."

"Hi, there! Wait a minute! Yuh don't need to be in such a doggone rush! I didn't say I wouldn't sell, did I?" Old Man Warren pulled him back. "Have it yuhr own way," he capitulated, adding greedily, "Where's the 25 bucks?"

"We'll get this down in black and white first." Ted sat down at the rough pine-board table and drew up a memorandum of the transaction, which Old Man Warren signed.

An Optical Illusion?

"Here you are." Ted handed him the money and put the precious memorandum in his pocket, smiling as he watched the old prospector count it over with loving care. "You're well rid of it," he observed as he turned to the door again. "Buyers aren't any too plentiful these days."

Old Man Warren nodded impatiently, but made no response as he started to count his unexpected wealth again.

With a "So long" that was accepted this time, Ted went out and mounted his horse, well satisfied with his afternoon's work.

Going back at a more leisurely pace, he was about five miles west of Red River, when he noticed far off in the distance a dark object that looked like someone on foot. He reined in and scanned the horizon to confirm his impression, but he could see nothing. Telling himself it was an optical illusion, he dismissed the incident from his mind and pushed on to the Lazy Nine.

The bunk house, he found deserted. Standing a moment on the steps, he turned over in his mind the question of waiting until some one came in off the range to deliver the document to him for Kay, or just leaving it with a note for Seth.

It was a great temptation to wait until Kay came back and give it to her himself. He could just see her eyes sparkle and her nose crinkle up with amusement, when she heard of Old Man Warren's attempt at bargaining.

On the other hand, he ought to be starting for home as soon as possible. As it was, he'd have to ride all night before reaching Blackfoot creek.

Suddenly he heard pounding hoof beats, and the next minute Flicker came in sight, riderless. His reins were dragging and his ears back as he headed on a dead run for the corral.

With a fearful certainty that something had happened to Kay, Ted leaped down the bunk house steps and threw himself into the saddle of his waiting mount, everything forgotten but Kay's safety.

A flash of memory recalled that impression he had had of seeing some one on foot far to the north of him as he rode out from Red River. Was it possible that Kay had had the same hunch he had had about getting the option at once, and that she had ridden in to Red River? And that some accident had happened on the way?

Ted cursed himself for not having investigated then and there, and headed off at a hard gallop in the general direction of the place where he had thought he had glimpsed that figure.

Galvanized To Action

Left to herself, Kay sank back and gave way for a moment to the weak, dizzy feeling that closed over her.

In her half-conscious state she could hear the retreating hoofbeats of Scrap Johnson's horse grow dimmer and dimmer. Finally they died away. The unbroken stillness of the mesa deepened around her and seemed to drag her into its own oblivion.

Fighting down the temptation to let go and drift into it, Kay struggled into a sitting position.

Her jaws ached cruelly under the tightly-tied bandanna, and her legs and arms were unbearably cramped from their forced confinement. But, bad as the physical pain and discomfort was, it was far less than her mental anguish.

She hadn't a doubt but that all her plans for rebuilding had come to nothing. Worse than that, it was practically a foregone conclusion that Josh Hastings would eventually get the ranch.

For the first time, Kay admitted to herself that he was too powerful and unscrupulous for her to fight successfully. Even though her mind recognized this fact, she found hope still persisting.

She realized that that hope centered around Ted Gaynor. Somehow or other, he might get around this last blow, that she had so stupidly brought on herself.

Despite her effort to thrust the thought of Scrap Johnson into the background of her mind and to cling to the conviction that he wouldn't dare to do her any actual harm, a shudder ran over Kay at the thought of his return.

He had all the instincts of a bully, and he had shown himself capable of sickening revenge for the wounds she had inflicted to his vanity.

Her lips burned at the memory of his kiss, and panic seized her as she realized how powerless she was in his hands. Even if he didn't do her any actual harm, she would never get over the sense of degradation that he could drag her down to.

Galvanized to action by this desperate thought, Kay forgot the ranch and everything else in the surge of self preservation that swept over her. She rolled over and struggled up to her knees.

The incline of the coulee behind her shut her of from a view of the range, and ruined any chance of her discovery by any passer-by. Not that there was likely to be any one, but it was a hundred to one chance.

Some way or other, she must get up there. Her courage revived with the prospect of an immediate objective to be obtained. Kay gazed piercingly about for some sharp stone on which she might saw through her bonds. She could see nothing but small stones and pebbles scattered through the bunch grass of the mesa. Her heart sank.

Ted rides to Kay's rescue, tomorrow, and fights Scrap.

CINCINNATI IRON STRIKE SETTLED

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, July 1—A ten-day strike involving several hundred workers in five Cincinnati [illegible] firms, was marked settled today with signing of an agreement between the companies and representatives of the Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers union, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor.

John Dempsey, Jr., spokesman for the union, said workers would receive an immediate wage increase of 10 cents hourly on a 44 hour work week basis and be paid time and a half for overtime.

LAWYER FOR CIO ATTACKS GOVERNOR

tion, civil rights of the Wagner labor relations act and he has done every one of them."

Judge Underwood asked why Marshall claimed the governor had stopped operation of civil law in the strike area.

"We claim that the governor has stopped operation of civil law," Marshall said. "We do not claim he has superceded civil law, but that civil rights have been taken away."

Later he said we would be willing to have three judges hear this case as to [illegible] best if they were here, but [illegible] emergency."

"Where three judges have sat in cases, there has been a declaration of martial law, but in Ohio the governor is not given power to declare martial law."

The CIO had five witnesses in court ready to testify if Judge Underwood ruled that the injunction suit should be heard.

They were Thomas Hatcher and Lester Lewis of Struthers, and George Waller and Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] Velicky of Youngstown. Velicky's head was bandaged.

The large court room was packed. A majority of the spectators were attorneys who expressed interest in the legal aspects of the case, complicated by three separate state motions—the one challenging jurisdiction, one to dismiss the suit and one seeking a postponement.

Following a short recess Judge Underwood asked Marshall "what constitutional rights have been violated for which there is no remedy in the state courts?"

"There is no adequate remedy," Marshall replied.

"The state courts are operated?" Judge Underwood asked.

"In a way," was the reply.

Upon Judge Underwood's insistence for a direct reply, Marshall said the question would be answered later by his counsel, Edward Lamb.

Hunt interrupted to say the civil authorities were functioning fully.

"Are you complaining that the governor is superceding the civil authorities?" Judge Underwood asked Marshall.

Marshall replied that Davey was lending his aid to local officials which were "violative of the federal bill of rights."

"Has any action been taken to restrain the local officials?" he asked the jurist, and Marshall replied that an "injunction does not lie to restrain police from making arrests."

The CIO attorney said wholesale arrests had been made by police and that houses were searched without warrants.

When Judge Underwood asked who requested troops, Hunt said they were asked by John L. Lewis, chief of the CIO.

Marshall reiterated that he was "not questioning the right of the governor to send troops into the Mahoning valley," but that he was "questioning his interference in the controversy."

"Do you admit the situation required troops?" Judge Underwood asked.

"We neither affirm or deny that," Marshall said.

Marshall questioned the governor's proclamation limiting picketing, and providing protection for workers desiring to return to their jobs, but Charles Druggan, a personal attorney for Davey, said that the governor's orders were to have the guardsmen and civil authorities.

ALICE MARBLE OUT OF TENNIS TOURNEY

By The Associated Press

The Polish girl, one of the hardest hitters in women's tennis, ran through the second set in easy fashion after Miss Marble had rallied to bring the score to 2-2.

The Stars Say—

FOR FRIDAY, JULY 2

A DAY IN which social, domestic and financial matters engage the attention, with probably need for unusual expenditure, is presaged. Either private loans or a definite business understanding may bring relief.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves confronted with a year in which the pursuit of pleasure may engage their energies. Social artistic romantic and affectional interests predominate with tendencies toward extravagance and indulgence. These may call for private loans or definite agreements of a business nature but in all be wise with expenditures and indulgences.

A child born on this day may be well endowed in both business and social factors for success and may reach an advanced station in life through its kindliness, nobility and popularity.

STEEL SHARES BUCK MARKET

Show Strength and Put Stamina Into Mid-Year Rally.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 1—Steel shares helped put stamina into the stock market today for extension of a mid-year rally.

With trade authorities forecasting expansion in operations for the industry after Fourth of July curtailment, United States Steel rose nearly 2 points at one time. Gains of fractions to more than a point were recorded in National Steel, Inland, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Bethlehem and Republic.

Under lead of the steels, the whole list stepped ahead with more vigor after the rally had lost headway in early dealings. Allied chemical ran up more than 6 points.

Some profit taking was noted by brokers as trade [illegible] exceed [illegible]

[illegible] call for [illegible] following [illegible] strike truce heartened the market of broadening steel activity.

Trading remained restricted, although many were hopeful the upturn [illegible] a transition to brighter skies in the second half of the year.

American Telephone, Westinghouse and Woolworth were among exceptions to the main trend.

Bonds also were inclined to carry on a recovery and wheat futures picked up moderate gains.

An excited rise in stocks in Paris with the reopening of the bourse was accepted in Wall Street as a logical reaction to the depreciation of the franc, which dropped below the level set in the stabilization of the French currency in 1928.

Reports of lively investment demand for new preferred stock issues offered this week were held in brokerage circles as manifestation of improvement in sentiment. It indicated, one commentator argued, that money was shaking off its spring fit of jitters and was looking for wider employment.

HUNDREDS ATTEND WALDO FESTIVAL

Annual Picnic Held As Fire Department Benefit

Special to The Star

WALDO, O., July 1 — Several hundred people from Marion and surrounding counties attended the third annual firemen's picnic here last night for the benefit of the village fire department. All kinds of games and sports featured the event—races, pie eating contests, ball and others.

The picnic was held in the village park, which was crowded from early evening until nearly midnight. Arrangements were in charge of Frank Edwards, fire chief.

An unofficial fireworks display staged by children was also held. Announcements and descriptions of the various events were made through a sound amplification system. Refreshments were served throughout the evening.

Wool Market

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, July 1—Spot wool was quiet today and quotations were unchanged though largely nominal.

Fine western grown wools held in the country received a little call from mills and top makers. Average 12-months Texas wools were sold at around 92 to 93 cents scoured basis delivered east. Good French combing 12-months Texas wools brought around 93 cents scoured basis delivered, while some staple combing length 12-months Texas wool brought around 97 to 98 cents scoured basis delivered.

The few buyers making offers were bidding only 90 to 92 cents scoured basis for good French combing length territory wools in original bags, but none was available in Boston under 95 cents scoured basis.

Alarm Over Crop Damage in U. S. and Canada Cause of Boost.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 1—All Chicago deliveries of wheat sky rocketed to the immediate permissible limit at the last today, 5 cents a bushel in the case of July contracts.

Renewal of alarm about crop damage in Canada and regarding rapid spread of black rust in the United States was chiefly responsible for general rushes to buy wheat futures. Cables indicated likelihood of possible big export requirements from the United States difficult to fill if fears of Canadian and domestic crop injury turn out as badly as apparently may now be the case.

At the close, wheat futures in Chicago were 4½-7⅛ above yesterday's finish, July 1.25 @ 1.26⅝, Sept 1.25, corn 2¼-3¾ up, July 1.28 @ 1.28¼, Sept 1.13⅞ @ 1.14, and oats 1¼-2¼ advanced.

NEW CCC REGULATIONS ANNOUNCED FOR COUNTY

Quota Here for July Is 25 Under Extension Law Now Effective; Age Limit Lowered.

New rules for selection of applicants for CCC work in line with President Roosevelt's declared policy of broadening the scope of the relief agency were received today by Walter S. Guthrie, deputy selecting agent for Marion county. At the same time he announced the county quota for July will be 25 boys.

The July enrollment will be the first to take place under the provisions of a recently enacted bill extending the CCC for three years. The national camp quota is reduced to 300,000 under the law, and the qualifications of applicants are changed.

The age range of applicants now is 17 to 23 years inclusive, instead of 17 to 28 as in the past.

Another change which extends the scope of the CCC permits enrollment of all young men of proper age who are unemployed and in need of employment at the time of application. Previously only young men whose families were on relief could be accepted. Preference will be given to boys from families in need of financial assistance, Mr. Guthrie said.

The new bill provides that the purpose of the CCC program is to furnish employment as well as vocational training for youthful citizens who are unemployed. The act further authorizes the director of the CCC in Washington to establish or maintain projects for employment of enrollees in camps, Mr. Guthrie said.

First Examination

The first group of the July quota will go to Mansfield for examination on July 9, Mr. Guthrie said. There are now 24 applications on file but some will drop out or be rejected so that any other young men may apply with reasonable chances of obtaining an appointment this month, he said.

From Mansfield the boys will go to Camp Knox for training and assignment to CCC camps. The terms are four months and each accepted applicant has the privilege of signing for an additional term.

In last night's Star it was incorrectly reported that the first CCC enrollment here was in June of 1935. The first was on June 5, 1933, Mr. Guthrie said.
